About the Instructor

Ron Plante lives in New Hampshire and is a lifelong artist, designer, illustrator and educator. He has devoted his 40-year career to the pursuit of excellence in fine art, graphic design, illustration and visual communication. Ron's experience includes owning and operating a successful design and illustration studio; a decade as an art and graphic design college professor; and professional positions in art, graphics and print design, leadership, education, management and graphics production.

Ron is known as Le Grand Fromage and is recognized for his passionate sermons on the value of unplugged (non-digital) preliminary skills. Ron teaches adjunct courses, runs Yellow Brick Road Productions and is Director for The Art-Design Village at New Millennium Education <http://www.artdesignvillageclasses.com/>. He is a visual communications consultant and creates art, illustration and design.

He's a member of Illustrati, <http://illustratigroup.ning.com>, a professional illustrator group The Floating Gallery <http://floatinggallery.ning.com/> and the Nashua Area Artists Association, <http://www.naaasite.org/>.

Ron holds an M.A. from Kaplan University, a B.A. from Rivier College and a Diploma from New England School of Art and Design.
